

JUNIOR PROM CONCERT

Glenn Yarbrough will croon to BYU students in the Smith Fieldhouse at 7 p.m. Friday preceding the "Brittany Ball." It will be Yarbrough's second appearance on campus. He is well known for his hits "Baby the Rain Must Fall" and "Savoy Street."

Prom Theme—'Brittany Ball' Promises English Elegance

The theme of this year's Junior Prom is "Brittany Ball," and is centered around the Charles Dickens era of England.

There are still a few tickets available for what is probably the season's most elegant social event. There are also many good seats left for the Glenn Yarbrough concert which precedes the prom. Both tickets may be purchased at the Wilkinson Center third floor box office.

DECORATIONS

Decorations for the dance will include a 15-foot scale model of Big Ben, a replica of the infamous Tower Bridge and many other famous British features. Big Ben, located in the center of the ballroom, will chime every half hour.

The mezzanine will have a promenade setting with 60 potted plants, wrought iron benches, street lights and trellises.

The Jack Reeves orchestra will provide the music from Tower Bridge.

FORMAL DRESS

Dress is formal, although dark suits and short dresses will be allowed.

The Hare 'n' Hounds Marathon was postponed yesterday because of rain. It will be today at 3 p.m. in front of the Eyring Science Center.

Other Junior Week events of the day will include a sidewalk cafe with entertainment from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. on the West Patio of the Wilkinson Center. Free refreshments will be served.

The movie "Becket" will be shown at 7:30 p.m. in the main ballroom of the Wilkinson Center. Students will be admitted free.

PETER NERO

Pianist Peter Nero will speak and answer questions in a telelecture session today at 1 p.m. in the Variety Theater.

Orchestra To Play Premieries

A free contemporary concert by the Utah Symphony Orchestra will be given today at 8:15 p.m. in the De Jong Concert Hall of the Harris Fine Arts Bldg.

The concert is part of a three-city tour that has taken the orchestra to Weber State College and the University of Utah. The works to be performed are by Dr. Darwin Wolford and Dr.

Merrill Bradshaw, both natives of the Intermountain West. Selection was based solely on merit and will be the premier performances by the symphony of both composers.

Maestro Maurice Abravanel will conduct Lazarof's "Structures Sonores," but he has asked Ardean Watts, who frequently conducts the Utah Symphony, to conduct Dr. Wolford's "Symphony No. 1."

Professor Ralph Laycock, conductor at BYU, has been asked to conduct Dr. Bradshaw's "Symphony No. 3."

Cost for the concerts have been underwritten by a grant to the orchestra through the University of Utah from the Rockefeller Foundation.

Dr. Bradshaw has been a member of the BYU music faculty since 1957, during which time he has won several awards for his many compositions. His music is played regularly by National Federation of Music Clubs and at other national conventions. He received his doctorate in music at the University of Illinois in 1952.

RICKS PROF

Dr. Wolford, whose work will also be played, is a member of the faculty of Ricks College, Rexburg, Idaho. He received his Ph.D. at the University of Utah in June 1957.

The major work for the concert is "Structures Sonores" by Henri Lazarof. It has six movements and lasts approximately 30 minutes.

"Lazarof is a modern composer who has a strong intellectual basis, while at the same time is deeply musical in the emotional sense," noted Mr. Abravanel.

DR. ROBERT J. SMITH
to fill Dr. Robert Thomas' former post.

Dr. Smith Named Asst. VP

Dr. Robert J. Smith, professor of accounting, has been named assistant vice-president of BYU.

Dr. Smith was named to the post by President Ernest L. Wilkinson. The office was vacated when Dr. Robert K. Thomas was appointed academics vice-president last week.

A former chairman of the accounting department, Dr. Smith has also served as acting dean of the College of Business at BYU.

U.S. HIGH

In 1947 he won the Eliza Watts Sells award for the highest grade in the U.S. in an examination for certified public accountants. In 1950 he published a two-volume book, Preparing for the CPA Examination.

In 1947 Dr. Smith received a Karl G. Maeser Award for Teaching Excellence from the Maeser Associates Fund.

Fletcher Scholarship Fund Established

The Lorena Chipman Fletcher Scholarship Fund has been set up at BYU out of a bequest to the University from the estate of the late Mrs. Fletcher, wife of Dr. Harvey Fletcher and American Mother of the Year in 1965.

The principal consists of a large amount of American Telephone & Telegraph Company stock, the income from which will provide scholarships amounting to about $100 a year.

Mrs. Fletcher, who died in January 1967, was mother of five sons and a daughter. All of her sons became respected professional men, including Dr. James Fletcher, president of University of Utah; Stephen, attorney and vice president of Western Electric; Dr. Robert Fletcher, vice president of Sandia Corp.; Dr. Harvey J. Fletcher, BYU Mathematics Dept.; Dr. Paul Fletcher, department head at Cambridge NASA Research Center.

Her husband is a renowned physicist and professor emeritus at BYU. He is known as the father of stereophonic sound and has been honored by scores of honorary degrees and medals from the President of the United States and professional societies.

Dr. Farnsworth Picked For Japanese Research

Dr. Lee W. Farnsworth, Director, Asian Research Institute, has been awarded a grant to continue his study of Japanese political factions.

He has written an article entitled "Factions and Party Politics in Japan." Dr. Farnsworth visited Japan in 1967. This article is a result of interviews with Japanese party politicians at that time.

He presented this article at the Association for Asian Studies Conference in Philadelphia, Mar. 21-23. While at the conference Dr. Farnsworth was appointed to the Committee for Japanese Studies.

Dr. Farnsworth commented that the existence of cliques and factions is quite broad throughout Japanese society. The clique is most noticeable in those groupings where there is an element of insecurity.

There are elements in the political structure of Japan that encourage factionalism. For instance, funds for campaigns are a necessity in every competitive political system. The raising of funds in Japan is most effectively accomplished by factions.

Factions are part of the decision-making process as they deliberate policy and send representatives to vote in their behalf at a higher level. In many cases, the factions are the main line of communication to the centers of power, both for individual and groups.

"The role of the factions needs more study," commented Dr. Farnsworth.

"In the next phase of my continuing analysis, I intend to utilize an analytical model based on role theory, hopefully to determine through this social-psychological method the interrelationship of the roles of a Diet-member as legislator, party member, people's representative, and faction member." "In this way," he remarked, "the political functions of factions will become more clear and therefore easier to deal with as one of the more important political phenomena peculiar to Japan."

Coeds Sound Off n Housing Policies

By Charlotte Andrei
Universe Feature Writer

True that a number of coeds on BYU on-campus housing are disenfranchised each year and to off-campus residences?

True that some do, but, according to Housing Director Carl Grace McDowell, who lives in Helaman Halls, agrees, "I get to know 40 girls really well, and I just love it."

An anonymous coed off-campus disagrees. She feels that social involvement is as great in some off-campus apartments as it is in the dormitories.

The problem is a problem that many girls find difficult on campus.

CHAPERONING ROOMMATES
Some object to "having to have two girls in the kitchen with one boy," as is the case in Heritage Halls.

Others object to not being able to have boys in without the special passes which are only available one night a week. Becky Wilson feels that this "seems kind of old-fashioned."

The problem is doubled for Wymount Terrace residents, because they must have their dates waiting outside the balcony, even in winter.

When questioned about this, Housing Director Jones promised to investigate the possibility of admitting men for ten minutes when they call for their dates because "our policy is for the benefit of the students."

OWN JUDGES
Wilson thinks she would be able to be a little bit on my own and be my own person.

Regarding the enforcement of Director Jones says that "the on-campus housing policy is the on-campus housing policy," but admits that it is more to force students living off-campus to adhere to their standards.

ways that one way the admission of on-campus housing at BYU to make girls feel responsible their own conduct is to turn to councils made up of students of the dormitories themselves to help insure that hall rules are followed.

YU'S RULES LIBERAL
also says that, compared with private universities, the houses of BYU are among the liberal.

an accusation levied by residents of lower Heritage Halls that the price is too high for uncarpeted apartments with colorful paint in red and green with a point, he responds, "We're process right now of redecorating."

He admits that limited funds will lengthen the redecoration in lower Heritage, but that, "We provide a lot of on-campus housing than other school in the United States for the money."

disgruntled coed who moved off-campus after living in Heritage said she resented being expected to be active in a myriad of activities and that she did not want to participate in the "slog" of intramural, softball, ping-pong, basketball, water basketball, water basketball, intramural sports, playing at Christmas, and ball dances that morally obligated to go to."

cret Towers, feels that residence all life has a definite social advantage, especially for underclassmen.

Students In Grenoble Report Experiences

The following article was written by students who lived in the 18 Semester abroad in Grenoble, France.

By Roger Wilson
Special to the Universe

In anticipation of our long-awaited, if little needed Easter Tour, BYU Grenoble '68 sends home greetings. We're having a wonderful time, which doesn't surprise us or anyone else. We look forward by storm in two days and three nights and have been taking Grenoble and its environs the same way since.

If Grenoble has an outstanding feature, besides its myriad vestiges of brief Olympic glory, it is probably its giant department store that has everything from slits to nuts . . . even more famous for its nuts now that we've arrived.

The department store is called Nouvelles Galeries. Here we can pick out what we want and go to the cashier with it, which saves the strain of asking in French for you're not exactly sure what in a small shop. One BYU'er had a stuffy nose and tried to get some nose drops. After a brave struggle she was relieved to see a look of comprehension on the pharmacist's face, just before he brought the box of Kleenex.

OLYMPICS
Speaking of Olympic glory, the Olympics were exciting, though most of us took advantage of the last week before they were over to travel, before school started. Still, nearly everyone has a story to tell about running into Jean Claude Kelly on the slopes—more or less literally. Others have stories of seeing Audrey Hepburn at Chamrousse or getting a glimpse of "Le grand Charles" at the opening ceremonies, to which we all went. That Charles of course is none other than De Gaulle.

We live in the Alpine countryside about 12 miles from Grenoble. However we go to school in town, eat there in one of the student restaurants and keep Grenoble's restaurants busy. The student restaurants are an experience. Home-made steaks really aren't bad. Deep fried brains and tripe are another thing but they feed us plenty and there is always Nouvelles Galeries and the shops for a diversion. A walk down a typical French street is an experience too.

In our more sensible moments we study. We have our "Cours Intéressants," French classes on various levels from University of Grenoble to the University of Grenoble. In the afternoon professors J. Keith Stude, James Duke and Delmont Oswald serve as reminders that we are indeed at Grenoble in France. In our morning classes many of us have made friends from all corners of the world and we all enjoy the cultural exchange that is perhaps more significant than our study of the language.

BYU students have excellent reputations, gleaned from past study tours here—quite some shoes to tell about running into Jean

Equipment Purchased

The BYU Health Center has recently purchased new medical equipment to improve service to the students.

The equipment includes an x-ray film processing unit at a cost of $7,000.

This unit can develop x-ray film, deliver it dry and ready for reading by the doctor in seven minutes.

The other purchase is a Coulter Counter for laboratory use at a cost of $4,000.

The Coulter Counter automatically counts the red and white blood cells. Because the Health Center is required each day to read approximately 100-150 blood counts, the Center will cut down on the technician's operating time and improve laboratory service to the students.

A Night In A Flophouse

by Camilla Mince
~~~~~ Culture Editor ~~~~~

During spring break my roommate and I decided to take in the Bay Area of California. Our financial conditions being what they were, we rode a lot of buses.

It's good to ride buses occasionally. It helps me communicate with the pessimists of the world. Bus stations and buses harbor the fringes of humanity.

I have the theory the world might someday be perfect if we just help each other. When I ride buses I am made aware that so many people need help themselves they can't possibly help others.

AN ADVENTURE

Which leads me to an adventure we had. (Adventure is discomfort taken with the right attitude.) We were staying with a friend at the University of San Francisco but took a bus ride down to Palo Alto for the afternoon. We didn't watch the time so arrived back in San Francisco at 11 p.m. As luck would have it, the dorm closed at that hour.

So, we decided to spend the night someplace else. Unfortunately we were hampered by a lack of money. We looked around and decided to spend the night in the bus station since it looked like a number of people were doing that. The company wasn't so great but the price was right.

We soon noticed the policeman checking tickets. We thought it was possible he might notice us after three or four hours and throw us out on the street at 2 a.m. The logical solution was to turn ourselves in. So we asked him what we had to do to spend the night in jail. After making a moaning sound he said there were a number of things but we wouldn't want to do them.

NIGHT MINISTER

We explained that we needed a place to stay for the night. He said the night minister would be coming in at midnight and he would refer him to us to see what could be done.

When the minister came, the policeman brought him to where we were sitting and asked us in a low, understanding voice if we wanted to see the night minister. The people sitting behind us stopped talking to listen and I'm sure they thought we were in trouble.

We explained our situation to the minister and he said he could help us and wondered if we minded staying in the YMCA. Naturally we didn't.

As we walked down the street—he walked between us—all the odd night people ran off. I saw him and asked how business was. He was friendly to everyone.

Before leaving, he cautioned us, "Don't go walking in this area tonight." We assured him we wouldn't and adjusted ourselves to spending the night in a flophouse.

'Candida' In Arena

George Bernard Shaw's "Candida" continues its run through Saturday.

The play, which has never before been produced at BYU, is the last Arena Theatre production of the year and plays nightly at 8:15 p.m.

According to Dr. Preston Gledhill, director, the play is a provocative, somewhat enigmatic examination of marriage.

Peter Giles plays the parson while Carla Hendricks assumes the title role.

Mexican Art Displayed In Gallery

Currently on exhibit in the Wilkinson Center Gallery is a collection of work by Karen Sue Madden, a graduate assistant in art, majoring in painting.

The theme of the exhibit might be called "Mexico Revisited" because many of the drawings, paintings, and prints are based on experiences and recollections gained there.

"I have tried to record my impressions with a kind of sympathetic humor. In fact, my somewhat 'tongue in cheek' attitude is often overlooked in my work," noted Miss Madden.

She attended Los Angeles City

College and BYU where she graduated in 1963 prior to serving a mission in Southeast Mexico.

Currently, she and her husband, Charles, are working on Masters of Arts degrees which they hope to finish by August.

Introducing the artist, a sign reads: "Karen Kull Madden, B.S. Educated. Married. Likes ice cream, dogs and people in general. Paints."

Banquet Speaker Announced

The featured speaker at the annual Communicative Disorders Area of the Speech and Dramatic Arts Department awards banquet will be Dr. Jon Eissenson. He will speak in the Skyroom at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, April 25.

Dr. Eissenson is the Professor of Speech and Hearing Sciences and Director of the Institute of Childhood Aphasia of Stanford University. An informal discussion period will be held at 3 p.m. for all interested students.

At the close of World War II, he organized and supervised the Language Rehabilitation Program for the Office of the Surgeon General.

The Old Timer

"By the time you find out what makes the world go 'round, you're too dizzy to care."

Senate Race Portrayed

An oratorical conflict between Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas will be portrayed in the Experimental Theater at 8:15 p.m. May 1, 2, and 3.

The play, "The Rivalry," by Norman Corwin tells of the campaigning between the two candidates for the senatorial seat of Illinois in 1858.

Andersonville War Crimes Trial Portrayed

What does a man fight for? This vital question is the theme of an epic-style play about a trial of southern officers after the Civil War. The play, under the direction of Roger Harris, will be presented today and Friday at 8 p.m. in the Neltke Experimental Theater of the Harris Fine Arts Center.

The trail concerns Henry Wirz, southern officer in charge of Andersonville prison. Wirz, played by Jim Alexander, is being tried for the northern officers for his alleged war crimes. The attorney played by Margaret Peterson, Ernie Busch, presents the evidence before the jury. A conflict of loyalties is seen. Does a man fight for his state or does he fight for what he knows is morally right? Director Roger Harris makes the argument that he uses the epic style because it presents the facts without bias. This style also lends itself to variations such as women playing men's parts.

Aid Given

Krent D. Peterson, a Speech and Dramatic Arts major has been awarded a three year "National Defense Education Act Title IV Scholarship" to Ohio University in Athens, Ohio.

The grant was given to Peterson to help in his study toward a B.S. in Public Address and Interpersonal Communications. The unit carries a stipend for full-time study and provides dependency allowances.

Peterson completed his B.A. in Speech and Dramatic Arts at BYU in 1967 and is currently completing work for his M.A. in Public Address.

of BYU football standouts. The triumvirate consists of line-backer Craig Bosch, flanker back Casey Boyett and tailback Wally Hawkins. The three, all seniors, Casey Boyett, a native of Jena, Louisiana, has been second in pass receiving only to Phil Ode for the past two seasons. Although he was injured during part of the '67 season, he caught 37 passes for 479 yards.

Hawkins, who came to BYU as an all-state back from Mesa, Ariz., averaged 4.3 yards per carry as an offensive back last year. He lost only four yards in 52 carries last fall.

Y Saddle Crew Ropes 3rd In Montana Rodeo

By Dennis Read
Universe SportsWriter

The BYU rodeo team made a foray into the Big Sky Country of Montana last weekend, but didn't round up as much as it had hoped.

At the University of Montana Intercollegiate Rodeo the best the Provo cowboys could do was take third behind the hard-riding Aggies of Utah State and the Bobcats of Montana State. The first place victory of USU moved them ahead of BYU in the race for the region crown.

The best showing by a Cougar wrangler was Ray Cammack's first place in the calf-roping event. The Pinger, Idaho cowboy missed his second calf in the ribbon roping or he might have taken that event as well.

Jerry Meyers split a first and second in the saddle bronc riding, plus won first place in a special go-around of the top-10 calf ropers.

The other BYU cowboys did fare as well with Bus Rich placing fourth in saddle bronc and El-ray Hendricks splitting a fifth and sixth in bareback. Nick Baldwin and Grant Fox came up with goose-eggs for their efforts.

This week the Y wranglers return to Montana for the third region roundup at Montana State University. The Cougars will be seeking to regain the lead they held earlier in the season.

AFTER TWENTY-ONE YEARS

in the photography business exclusively, we have decided that the related line of tape recorders would not interfere with our policy of service and happiness for our photography customers.

After our usual research and experimentation on new products, we have come to the conclusion that the time has come to provide the best in tape recorders for our clientele. We don't propose to go all out for the hi-fi fan, with Ampex, Roberts, etc., but rather to provide the maximum pleasure with the minimum in bulk, expense, and inconvenience.

Consequently, we invite you to come in and let us show you what the Hollanders did in producing a workable cartridge for the tape recorder. Also they have produced a really compact and relatively inexpensive stereo system using a cartridge to record, play back, and provide on pre-recordings the finest of music.

The versatility of these machines is fantastic. The same cartridge will fit a portable machine about the size of a Polaroid camera or the tape deck that plays back through twin speakers with astounding volume and fidelity. These machines are provided with input and output so one can make his own recordings, even in stereo. Pick up a program from the radio or TV, or take a tape from a record.

Put these tapes together with movies and you have a satisfying and creditable sound film. But it is more fun see it and listen to it than it is to read this stuff I write, so come on in.

Kennedy, McCarthy On National TV Debate

Sens. Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene J. McCarthy Wednesday started debating about each other—a political ritual that usually get nowhere.

Both the Democratic presidential contenders said they were willing to participate in a nationally televised debate prior to the May 7 Indiana primary.

But Kennedy attached a major condition—that all of whom he described as the Democratic contenders participate, including Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Gov. Roger Branigan, a favorite son candidate in Indiana.

The issue arose, according to McCarthy, when the ABC television network asked him to debate Kennedy on the interview program, "Issues and Answers."

WOULD BE GLAD

McCarthy said he had told the network he "would be glad to appear with him Kennedy." But he told newsmen it would "all depend on the circumstances and the format of the debate whether I will participate."

Pierre Salinger, a Kennedy aide, said the New York Democrat also "would be happy to participate" but only if all other candidates do. And that, he said, meant Branigan and Humphrey.

While Kennedy was campaigning Wednesday in Oregon, McCarthy plumped for support in Pennsylvania. He called for the resignation of Secretary of State Dean Rusk "to show our willingness to change our policy in Vietnam."

It was the first time McCarthy has publicly asked for Rusk's resignation since the senator began his antiwar presidential campaign. He made similar statements before he became a candidate.

Kennedy, who also opposes the war, praised President Johnson's recent peace initiative but said "we must take more action. We must go to the negotiating table and find a peaceful solution to that terrible struggle."

OUTLINES PLAN

In Coos Bay, Ore., Kennedy outlined a six-point plan for reform of the nation's educational system, including higher education for all regardless of economic status.

McCarthy said he would prefer to debate Kennedy under a format similar to the one used when John F. Kennedy met Republican candidate Richard M. Nixon on television in 1960.

That debate, which some feel won the election for Kennedy, is generally conceded to have been a tactical blunder by Nixon, who was the better known of the two and had less to gain by national exposure.

Eight years later, Kennedy forces can see little profit in a head-to-head debate with McCarthy, at least as far as the Indiana primary is concerned. They believe Branigan, rather than McCarthy, will be their chief obstacle to victory in Indiana.

It was considered doubtful that either the governor or Humphrey would agree to debate. Humphrey has not yet announced his candidacy. And Branigan does not intend to campaign on national issues. He only wants to hold the state delegation together until the Democratic convention.
